CODE OF BUSINESS ETHICS AND CONDUCT

1. Purpose and Application

Burcon NutraScience Corporation (the “Corporation”) is committed to maintaining high standards of integrity and accountability in conducting its business while at the same time seeking to grow its business and value. This code of business ethics and conduct (the “Code”) provides a framework of guidelines and principles to govern and encourage ethical and professional behaviour in conducting our business.

This Code applies to all directors, officers and employees of the Corporation and its subsidiaries (“representatives”). The guidelines set out in this Code may be further supplemented by specific corporate, divisional or departmental policies. As with all guidelines or principles, you are expected to use your own judgement and discretion, having regard to these standards, to determine the best course of action for any specific situation. If you are unsure about a particular situation or course of action, please speak to the Chief Executive Officer or Chief Operating Officer of the Corporation.

The Code sets forth such standards as are reasonably designed to deter wrongdoing and to promote: honest and ethical conduct, including the ethical handling of actual or apparent conflicts of interest between personal and professional relationships; full, fair, accurate, timely, and understandable disclosure in the reports and documents that the Corporation files with, or submits to, securities regulatory authorities and in other public communications made by the Corporation; compliance with applicable governmental laws, rules and regulations; the prompt internal reporting of violations of the Code to an appropriate person or persons identified in the Code; and accountability for adherence to the Code.

2. Conflicts of Interest

It is our policy to ensure the Corporation’s best interests are paramount in all of our dealings with customers, suppliers, contractors, competitors, existing and potential business partners and other representatives and are conducted in a manner that avoids any actual or potential conflicts of interest.

In general, a conflict of interest exists where a representative’s personal interests interfere with his or her ability to act in the best interests of the Corporation. Conflicts of interests may exist in any situation where your ability to act objectively, or in the best interests of the Corporation, are influenced. These include the receipt of improper personal benefits by you or your family and friends, as a result of your position with the Corporation.

Full and timely disclosure of any actual or potential conflict of interest is very strongly encouraged. Proper disclosure provides an opportunity to obtain advice from the appropriate level of management and to resolve actual or potential conflicts of interests in a timely and effective manner. Employees should promptly disclose to their supervisor any material transaction or relationship that reasonably could be expected to give rise to a potential or actual conflict of interest. Directors and officers shall disclose any potential conflicts of interest in writing to the board of directors for review in accordance with applicable law.

3. Protection and Use of the Corporation's Assets and Opportunities

All representatives are responsible for protecting the Corporation's assets from improper use including fraud, theft and misappropriation. Proper discretion and restraint should always govern the personal use of the Corporation's assets.
